We already do a lot for our health at home.

What if you could also get screened for cancer at home?

For colon cancer your doctor can prescribe a screening test that you can do at home and send through the mail for testing. For cervical cancer, a similar home screening test will also be available soon. Tell us what you think about these home-based cancer screening methods and help shape the future choices available to patients and their doctors.

Who are we asking to participate?
- Hispanic women age 45–65 years
- No history of cervical cancer or hysterectomy
- No history of colon cancer or colon adenoma and no family history of colon cancer

What do I have to do to participate?
- Fill out our 15 minute anonymous survey
